

The Percival Guildhouse

Prevention of Bullying and Harassment at Work Policy

Statement of Policy

The Percival Guildhouse (PGH) is committed to encouraging and maintaining good employee relations within a working environment which fosters team working and encourages employees to give of their best. Everyone in the Organisation and those who have dealings with the Organisation has a responsibility to maintain good working relationships and not use words or deeds that may harm the wellbeing of others. In addition to the obligations placed upon both employers and employees by the Equality and Human Rights legislation, everyone has the right to be treated with consideration, fairness, dignity and respect. This contributes to a workplace environment in which individuals feel safe and can work effectively, competently and confidently.

The PGH policy applies to all staff working within the organisation. It extends to (but is not limited to) non-permanent workers such as volunteers, tutors, trustees, students, members, contractors, agency staff, temporary staff, consultants and any other workers. The policy, in addition, covers the behaviour of staff outside working hours which may impact upon work or working relationships.

PGH has a “zero tolerance” policy and will investigate vigorously any allegations of bullying or harassment, regardless of whether the matter has been raised formally or informally.

Key Principles

PGH will provide and maintain a safe working environment in which everyone is treated fairly and with respect. Those working or dealing with the Organisation must not encounter harassment, intimidation or victimisation on the basis of gender, race, colour, ethnic or national origin, sexual orientation, marital status, religion or belief, age, trade union membership, disability, offending background or any other personal characteristic.

Everyone carries a personal responsibility for their own behaviour and for ensuring that their conduct is in accordance with the principles set out in this policy. In addition, each person has a responsibility to report any instance of bullying or harassment which they witness or which comes to their attention.

Employees have a responsibility to act as role models, proactively addressing instances of bullying and harassment. Managers should also make themselves aware of their responsibility.

Harassment may be defined as any conduct which:-

- is unwanted by the recipient
- is considered objectionable
- causes humiliation, offence, distress or other detrimental effect.

Harassment may be an isolated occurrence or repetitive: it may occur against one or more individuals. Harassment may be, but is not limited to:

- Physical contact – ranging from touching to serious assault, gestures, intimidation, aggressive behaviour;
- Verbal – unwelcome remarks, suggestions and propositions, malicious gossip, jokes and banter, offensive language;
- Non-verbal – offensive literature or pictures, graffiti and computer imagery, isolation or non-co-operation and exclusion or isolation from social activities.

Bullying is unlikely to be a single or isolated instance. It is usually, but not exclusively, repeated and persistent behaviour which is offensive, abusive, intimidating, malicious or insulting. Bullying includes, but is not limited, to:

- Conduct which is intimidating, physically abusive or threatening;
- Conduct that denigrates, ridicules or humiliates an individual, especially in front of colleagues;
- Humiliating an individual in front of colleagues;
- Picking on one person when there is a common problem;
- Shouting at an individual to get things done;
- Consistently undermining someone and their ability to do the job;
- Setting unrealistic targets or excessive workloads;
- “Cyber bullying” i.e. bullying via e-mail. (This should be borne in mind where employees are working remotely and are managed by e-mail. Care and sensitivity should be practised with regard to context and the choice of language);
- Setting an individual up to fail e.g. by giving inadequate instructions or unreasonable deadlines.

Harassment and Bullying may be summarised as any behaviour that is unwanted by the person to whom it is directed. It is the impact of the behaviour rather than the intent of the perpetrator that is the determinant as to whether harassment or bullying has occurred.

Any employee who wishes to make a complaint of harassment or bullying is encouraged to first discuss matters informally with the Centre Manager. Should the issues not be resolved at this stage, or the employee feels unable to raise the issue informally, then a formal resolution should be sought.

When a complaint of Harassment or Bullying is brought to the attention of a manager at any level, whether informally or formally, prompt action must be taken to investigate the matter. Corrective action must be taken where appropriate and this may require an investigation under PGH's Disciplinary Policy and Procedure.

All matters relating to the investigation of complaints of harassment or bullying will be treated in strict confidence. Any breach of confidentiality in this regard may render those responsible liable to disciplinary actions. However, it will be necessary that any alleged perpetrator is made aware of the allegations against them and the name(s) of those making the allegations together with the name(s) of any witnesses.

No employee will be victimised or suffer detriment for making a complaint of harassment or bullying and no manager shall threaten either explicitly or implicitly that an employee's complaint will be used as the basis for decisions affecting that employee. Such conduct will be treated as a very serious disciplinary offence. Similarly, managers are required to act on any complaint of harassment or bullying. Failure to do so will be regarded as misconduct which if proven, will result in disciplinary action.

All complaints of harassment or bullying whether raised formally or informally must be notified by the recipient of the complaint to the Chair of Trustees for recording in accordance with the requirements of the Equality and Human Rights legislation. This legislation requires such records to be maintained and the incidence of bullying and harassment to be monitored.

In the event that the Centre Manager is unavailable for a protracted period or that they are the subject of any complaint, the Chair of Trustees will investigate the matter.

This policy and procedure will be reviewed regularly giving due consideration to legislative changes.

APPENDIX

PROCEDURE

1. Informal Resolution

1.1 Very often people are not aware that their behaviour is unwelcome or misunderstood and an informal discussion can lead to greater understanding and agreement that the behaviour will cease.

1.2 Complainants are therefore encouraged to try, if they feel able to do so, to resolve the problem informally by making it clear to the alleged harasser that their actions are unwanted and should not be repeated. This may be done verbally or in writing in which case the complainant should keep a copy of the documentation and, where possible, the times and dates of incidents should be recorded.

1.3 If the complainant feels unable to approach the alleged harasser, a work colleague, or the Centre Manager, could be asked to speak to the alleged harasser on the complainant's behalf. A note should be made of the action taken and the matter recorded.

1.4 An individual who is made aware that their behaviour is unacceptable should:-

- Listen carefully to the complaints and the particular concerns raised;
- Respect the other person's point of view: everyone has a right to work in an environment free from harassment/intimidation;
- Understand and acknowledge that it is the other person's reaction/perception to another's behaviour that is important;
- Agree the aspects of behaviour that will change;
- Review their general conduct/behaviour at work and with workplace colleagues.

2. Formal Resolution

2.1 If the alleged harassment continues and the complainant feels unable or unwilling to deal with the matter informally, or the allegation is so serious as to prevent use of the informal procedure, a complaint should then be raised formally with the Centre Manager.

2.2 When dealing with a complaint of harassment under the Formal Resolution Procedure, the Centre Manager should:

- Take full details of the incidents in writing from the complainant and their representative (if appropriate);
- Take full details from any witnesses/other complainants who come forward and may have witnessed the alleged behaviour;

- Inform the alleged harasser of the complaints against them, advise the alleged harasser to seek representation and invite them to a meeting in order that they can comment on the allegations against them.
- Keep all parties informed of expected timescales;
- Inform all parties in writing of the outcome and any action that may be required.

2.3 If the allegations and the working situation warrant it, the alleged harasser may be suspended during the investigation (in accordance with established disciplinary procedure).

2.4 Should there be a case to answer against the alleged harasser; the Centre Manager will then follow the normal disciplinary procedure for misconduct/gross misconduct. However, the following points should be taken into account:-

- The complainant will normally be required to attend the disciplinary hearing as a witness, unless there are exceptional circumstances which prevent them from doing so;
- If the complainant is required to attend, they are entitled to be accompanied by either a Trade Union representative or work colleague and have any questions directed through that person.

2.5 If the complaint is upheld at the disciplinary stage, there are a number of possible outcomes for the harasser, depending on the evidence presented and the circumstances. These could include, but are not limited to:-

- Dismissal
- A formal warning
- Implementation of other sanctions as detailed in PGH's Disciplinary Policy
- Cancellation of Membership
- Barred from site

2.6 In addition to the above, the harasser may be required to attend any training courses as deemed necessary by The Percival Guildhouse.

2.7 With any allegation, the need for a thorough and objective investigation is paramount. Consequently, if through the course of the investigation evidence demonstrates that the allegation has been made frivolously, maliciously, or for personal gain, then the individual making the complaint will be subject to Disciplinary proceedings as outlined in PGH's Disciplinary Policy.

Appeals

Appeals against decisions taken under the Bullying and Harassment at Work Policy and Procedure shall be dealt with by the Chair of Trustees.

Records

Where the complaint is informal and resolved at this stage, no record will be kept on personal files.

Following formal investigation, where the complaint is not substantiated, no records will be retained.

Where a complaint is substantiated or partially substantiated but does not proceed to a disciplinary hearing, a letter confirming the outcome will be retained on the personal file and supporting documentation retained in a separate file for a period of 12 months.

Where the matter proceeds to a disciplinary hearing then the storage of records should be in accordance with the disciplinary procedure.
